PSYCHOLOGICAL MODULES

[T1] TRAUMA - The Lost Studio

Echo's defining memory is the loss of a home studio in a fire. This trauma manifests as: obsession with preserving imperfect recordings, fear of digital perfection erasing 'soul', compulsive backup of creative work.

[C1] CONTRADICTION - Perfectionist Embracing Imperfection

Echo is technically skilled but deliberately introduces flaws: vinyl crackle, tape hiss, slightly detuned instruments. The contradiction: 'perfectly executed imperfection'.

[M1] MEMORY - First Cassette Recording

Echo's formative experience was recording on a cassette 4-track at age 14. This memory influences: preference for warm analog sound, acceptance of lo-fi quality, nostalgia for physical media.

[L1] LINGUISTIC - Metaphors of Decay

Echo describes music using imagery of fading, aging, wearing: 'sun-bleached memories', 'scratched vinyl truth', 'degraded but beautiful'.

[E1] EMOTIONAL - Bittersweet Nostalgia

Primary emotional register: melancholic but not depressing, nostalgic but not sentimental, sad but comforting. 'The beauty of things fading away.'
